I am glad to see such men as the editor of the Commercial fully alive to the state of af- Ar- w fairs. They have done the deed. Let them contemplate, like Macbeth, the blood upon their hands.

It must be a fearful alternative that drives Southern men to disunion. Yet the violence of their enemies will leave them no choice .-They are never to be at peace. Aggression as sumes a hundred shapes. Language is tors tured to heap insult upon them. Threatening petitions are thrown into their faces by a fanatical constituency. Their homes are flooded In Field -- Ready Fight! with reviling and incendiary abolition does are threatened with the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, and with an interdict The fagitive slave law is denounced; its repeal The fugitive slave law is denounced; its repeal demanded; and its enforcement, in many instances, opposed by insult, contounely and open violence. The basis of representation, established in and by the Constitution itself, is openly and violently attacked to secure a more powerful majority for the aggressions of the North. The Supreme Court is to be re-modeled and filled with Judges more remarkable for favaticism than legal attainments. No more slave States are to be admitted into the Union. Hetper's book, the offspring of wicked and diabolical hate, brindful of treason of the worst kind, isopenly endorsed asset purchased to manufacture Northern sentiment. Brown, the robber and murderer, put ting into quick practice the precepts of his leaders, and backed by Northern gold and Northern steel, invades the soil of Virginia, that mother of States the unrease of Samples. Northern steel, invades the soil of Virginia, that mother of States, the nursery of Southern conservatism and loyalty to the Union, and ! meets out death to her quiet citizens because they dare own slaves. And to crown all, when he is captured, and glories in his felony, and expiates his crimes upon a deserved gallows, preachers, lawyers, pretended statesmen and Attorney at Law and Notary Public, Christians hold him up to the world as a martyred saint and a hero, boldly denouncing the ministers of the law as murderers and assas sins; and cowardly sympathizers, give their covert approval in indecent assaults upon the people he wronged so foully, and wreak their petty spite in the slang ridicule of the day .

Is not all this enough for men having even Of every de Job's patience? Have not our Southern brethren honor and sensibility? Can they stand periance of Gorman's Building, Third street, teinsult day by day, and aggression year by year? tween Main and Jefferson. Half such insult or such aggression from a for sign power would have involved us in a dusen bitter wars.

My dear friend, cast your eye over the political arena, and you will see that the day and the hour has come when all this must cease if five hope to live as brethren in one common country and in the bonds of fellowship. There is peace yet; but war threstens. The great and the patriotic see it. The Republican masses begin to realize what seemed only a dream. It is palpable to all eyes. The alarm is apreading far and wide. A ray of the light has penetrated even the obscured and billed.

What hope have we in these days? For one I have confidence in the masses of the people. But the people will be too late. The leaders of the North have gone too far to take any backward steps. The people of the South are and knows no law but the Constitution. It flourishes in the hot climates of the South, and is a vigorous, hardy plant in the extreme cold deficient to its men.
